A LIST OF REVOLUTIONARY SOLDIERS AND SAILORS WHOSE GRAVES HAVE BEEN DESIGNATED BY THE MARKER OF THE SOCIETY.

PREPARED BY HENRY A. MAY.

THE marker of the Society, which has been fully described and figured in previous Registers, has been placed at the graves of 4,517 soldiers and sailors of the War of the Revolution. About 3,815 graves have been marked in 115 cities and towns of our own State, 693 in other States of the Union, and 9 in foreign countries. It is made either of iron or bronze, at a very moderate price, and can be procured from the maker on an order furnished by the Registrar.

The origin and history of the markers is well expressed in the following extracts, made from the speech of Captain Nathan Appleton, one of the Vice-Presidents of our Society, on the occasion of the celebration of the "Children of the American Revolution" at the Old South Meeting-house, July 4, 1895:—

"It [the design] is taken from the cross of Saint Louis, with some changes; and nothing could be more appropriate, as you will remember that it was during the reign of Louis XVI. of France, who was Grand Master of the Order, that Lafayette and the other Frenchmen of the army and navy came to the struggling colonies, and gave us the assistance we so much needed at the time.

"In the centre of the cross is the 'Minute-man,' a copy of the statue, by Daniel C. French, which stands by the Concord Bridge, where was 'fired the shot heard round the world' on April 19, 1775.

"The matter was discussed by the Board of Managers of the Massachusetts Society. At a meeting in the summer of 1890 the idea of placing some mark by the graves of soldiers, sailors, and patriots of the American Revolution first had expression in the town of Acton, Mass., where, at the suggestion of our fellow-member, Reuben Law Reed, and aided by two posts of the Grand Army of the Republic, on Memorial Day, 1892, simple wooden markers were put by the graves of those who were known to have taken part in the War for Independence. This, also, was done at the neighboring town of Stow on the 4th of July of that same year.

"At a meeting of the Massachusetts Society held in Wesleyan Hall, Boston, February 8, 1893, to take action in relation to having the 19th of April made a State holiday, the Rev. Carlton Albert Staples, of Lexington, suggested that it would be well to have some way of marking the graves, and also of placing in town halls or libraries tablets with the names and services of those who had honored the history of the town by what they had done in the Revolutionary War. A committee was appointed for this, with Mr. Staples as chairman, and at the annual meeting of the Society, April 19 of that year, made a report on the subject. From this came the appointment of a committee — of which I was made chairman — to prepare some special design to be placed in cemeteries. A design was presented at the meeting of the Society held at Marblehead October 19, 1893; and it was voted to adopt it, and also to order fifty in behalf of the Society. So now it became an accomplished fact; and preparations were made to bring the markers to the notice of municipal authorities, so that the work of placing them in the graveyards could be initiated on the new Patriots' Day, April 19, 1894, which was done. I should have stated that on this day, 1893, small American flags with the letters 'S. A. R.' were placed by patriotic citizens at Revolutionary graves in several of our towns. You will notice that the marker has on the three upper arms of the cross the letters 'S. A. R.,' which can stand for a 'Soldier' or 'Sailor' of the American Revolution, or, if it please you, for 'Son' or 'Society,' making it very comprehensive, at the same time clearly fixing the name of our organization as that of the 'American Revolution.'

"At the meeting of the National Society held at Washington, D.C., April 30, 1894, the marker was officially adopted by the Society, and since that time has come into general use. Thousands of them have been placed in Massachusetts; and they are fast going to other States, some to Alexandria, Va., while there is one in Chicago of an old soldier of the war who settled and died in the young city of the lake."

By an Act of the Legislature, towns are authorized to vote such sums as they deem necessary for the purpose of erecting head-stones, or other monuments, to the memory of those who served in the Revolutionary and other wars.

In order to perpetuate the record of the markers already placed, the managers have authorized its publication in connection with the Register. The names have been arranged under the towns in which the persons were buried. Certain cities and towns have voted money for the marking of graves, but very many of the graves herein noted have been marked by private individuals. In some places all the markers are of bronze; in others, of iron.

During recent visits to Paris, Captain Appleton has interested himself in identifying and marking the graves of Frenchmen and others who rendered service during the War for Independence, as shown by the following list: —

Marquis de Lafayette, buried at the Picpus Cemetery.

William Temple Franklin, grandson of Benjamin Franklin, who acted as his secretary in 1783, when the Treaty of Peace between the United States and Great Britain was signed.

The three brothers de Lameth,— Theodore, Charles, and Alexandre,— who were officers in the army in America, and whose monument consists of three pillars united as one.

Beaumarchais, whose services in obtaining money for the American cause were so important.

D'Abouville, colonel of artillery at the surrender at Yorktown. The last six are buried at Père-la-Chaise.

At the small cemetery at Calvaire, at the heights of Montmartre, can be seen the burial-place of Comte de Bougainville, an officer both of the French army and navy, who commanded two ships at Yorktown. Later on he was the first French circumnavigator of the globe.

Rochambeau is buried in the town of Vendôme, where within a year a statue of him has been erected.

The graves of Admiral Bruix and Saint-Simon, a French sailor, and Truquet, have also been found.

MARBLEHEAD.

One of the objects of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution is to furnish at a small cost markers to place upon the graves of soldiers and sailors who served in the war of the Revolution. The work of locating graves and placing markers thereon in the burial-yards of this town has been undertaken by Hon. Samuel Roads, Junior, who is a member of the society; and thus far fifty graves have been marked. Twenty-five of the markers were purchased by vote of the town, thirteen by the Board of Selectmen, and twelve by the Historical Society. The graves will be decorated on Memorial Day with wreaths furnished by the ladies of the Historical Society.

Following are the names of veterans whose graves have been marked: —
